RACES AT THE FAIR

Spirited Contests at the Kent County Grounds.

PROGRAM FOR CHILDREN'S DAY

The Fair Will Close Today With Fun Proroking Sports for School Children.

Yesterday was another good day for the Kent county fair and according to conservative estimates of several of the directors, acrowd of 3,000 persons passed through the gates. The exhibits incressed in attractiveness and the program of entertainment was presented as Promptly at I o'clock a grand cavalcade formed and placed itself on exhibition. The procession was one half mile in length and presented an admirable appearance. The great procession was headed by the directors, officers and superintendents in carriages, who were followed by the Guines brass band. Next came the collection of borses. They made as pretty as exhibition as has been presented on similar occasions in furmer years and the grades of stock were much admired by lovers of horse flesh. The exhibition of colls was one of the best ever seen at a county fair in any part of the state. The procession moved around the track and was wit-nessed by hundreds of spectators from the grand stand.

Following the cavaicade came the program of races which was the principal feature of the afternoon. Those races deferred from Wednesday's program were given after which the bicycle races were called. The judges for the house races were A. H. Guild, D. F. bilkerten and W. R. Cady.

Interesting Races.
The first race from Wednesday's program was a driving team trotting race.

The bicycle races were spirited and some good riding was done. The track was in a bad condition owing to the rain of the day before, which left a rough surface. The boys made some creditable time, however. Ealph B. Hain, W. B. Jarvis and John H. Taylor acted as judged, and A. B. Richmond was referee. W. B. Folger started the boys on the track. T. S. Richmond, the scratch man, did not start in the handicap on account of illness. The first event was a three male handicap with the following starters: G. A. Beelby, 75 yards; ing starters: G. A. Their Pirst Display. The Wegner House Furnishing overmaking at this fair their first public display and to say that the exhibit shown in their backs in the art half is all that any one can ask for is express that M. whate came up while his before the victors an singest acray of purior and atting room goods, clining scool from cooler her. fin Fruit hall visitors are enabled to see quite a novel display and one full of interest. It is made by S. S. Markham, nurseryman, and consists of a full line of fruits and vegetables, preserved by the great French fruit preserving process, the right of which Mr. Markham has for this county, and also county rights for sale in the state. This great process is simply a fumigation with an entirely new compound, and it can be cheaply done by preparing a tight box or small room. Space will not permit a detailed description of the modus operandi of preserving fruits, etc., by this process, but Mr. Markham has a full stock of printed matter at his booth, giving a full description. This great process, like a good thing, has one grand feature, it completely destroys all germs liable to produce decay. It is pronounced by competent physicians as healthful and free from all injurious insects. It is a money, time and labor sects. It is a money, time and inhor saver. This process requires no cooking, no air-tight cans, no sugar, no acid, no alcehol, no trouble, and but very little expense. Mr. Markham has an office at No. 32 South Division street.

Alfred Brown, the well known seed dealer, located on North Division street, near Monroe, is making a fine exhibit of goods in Fruit and Vegetable hall, which is attracting much attention. The Kent County society is under obligations to Mr. Brown for his liberal display. Farmers are particularly interested in the show and crowds of our country cousins are always seen about these quarters. Mr. Brown displays a full line and variety of garden, flower and field seeds.

He Was in Attendance.

If anyone ever doubted the popularity of Julius A. J. Friedrich with the farming element, all such doubts would quickly have been dispelled if the cordial reception tendered Mr. Friedrich by the farmer, his wife and family yesterday could have been seen. Mr. Friedrich was at his booth for a short time and was kept busy exchanging greetings with his friends from the country. Mr. Friedrich's display, although not a large one, is very attractive and one of the features of art hall. The celebrated Fisher and Hazelton Bros', pianos Mr. Friedrich is displaying is attracting universal attention.

Finest in the Building. He Was in Attendance.

Finest in the Building. Anyone that inspects the exhibit made by Morse's Department stores, pro-nounces it the best arranged and most satisfactory exhibit they have seen for many a day. This great concern put special efforts into this particular dis-play and engaged five booths on the second floor of the art hall, to show the goods. Some of the firms best and highest grades of goods were used and the really magnificent show made, was all due to the efforts of Herbert Walker, all due to the efforts of Herbert Walker, the firms manager of the carpet department. This young man displayed excellent taste in the arrangement of goods and the decorations and drapings. Among some of the features observed in the display were a fine line of carpets, sewing machines, shoes, cloaks, a case of millinery, bedroom suites, bric-a-brac, rich upholstered goods, dining-room furniture. stered goods, dining-room furniture, chinaware and onyx goods. It is well worth anyone's time to see this pretty

Near the Grand Stand. seen a little booth that is a most unique affair in structure. It is composed of boxes and signs, on which are to be seen boxes and signs, on which are to be seen the words "Nine o'clock washing tea." Pedestrians stop and look, then study and wonder, and finally move up to the booth. The words "Nine o'clock washing tea" form a sentence that is a puzzler to all, and curiosity lead all to make a more thorough investigation. curiosity lead all to make a more thorough investigation. Two hustling young men, members of the firm of Andrews, Brown & Company, with offices located at $13 Michigan Trust building, are always on hand to explain the meaning of these words to all desiring to know. For the benefit of the readers of Tur Herrald, briefly speaking, an explanation will be made of the meaning of "Nine o'clock Washing Tea." It is not a beverage for drinking purposes as some people think, but it is an article prepared to lighten the labor of the housewife and when it is thoroughly known in this country will supplant the soap industry, as it is used for all purposes where soap is required. This is soap inclustry, as it is used for all pur-poses where soap is required. This is what Nine o'clock Tea accomplishes and it is now on sale in nineteenths of the groceries in the city. The goods are put up in neat packages and sell at 5 cents each. The Nine o'clock Tea is free from acids, or anything that will injure the most delicate fabric and where other compounds leave goods yellow, the Tea will turn them back to snowy whiteness.
